

Is It Monday Already?

"Because Money Doesn't Grow On Trees!"

This site is best viewed using Firefox or older versions of Internet Explorer

Home

Post RSS

Comment RSS

Jolly Llama Sorbet yummy review AND giveaway

Monday, November 9, 2009

I have to say yummm!!! I love good frozen Sorbet but a lot of time you get sticky sweet not so real tasting messes when you buy them at the store. Well you all NEED to try Jolly Llama Sorbet they come in four mouth watering flavors Strawberry, Mango, Blueberry, and Acai. I want to tell you the best part of these 3 oz. yummys to me is there is no high fructose corn syrup!!! Nope just pure cane sugar is used, whoo hoo! They are low in fat and super low in calories, and are fortified with Fiber and we all need that. The taste is out of this world just sweet enough, creamy and full of real fruit goodness.

The packaging is great too as they come in a squeezable tube no muss no fuss and easy to watch your portions when they are individual. At this time Jolly Llama is grocery stores in the west (expanding I'm sure) but in the mean time you can order them to be shipped for a price of $36.00 and $12.50 S&H for a large 24 count case! I really feel confident that once you taste them you will be hooked--I know I am!

Readers, do you want to try them for yourself? Why wouldn't you! Well one lucky reader will be sent an entire 24-tube case (single flavor) for you to enjoy! This giveaway is open to the Continental US only and will run until 11/20/09 at 8am MT. You do not need to be a blog owner to win, but you must leave a way to for me to contact you. All I need you to do is tell me which flavor you want if you win. All of topic comments will be deleted. Winner has 3 days to reply to my email or another will be chosen.

Link: <http://www.isitmondayalready.com/2009/11/jolly-llama-sorbet-yummy-review-and.html>